

Dr. Mark D. Shermis

Professor, College of Education, University of Houston—Clear Lake

Dr. Mark D. Shermis was the principal investigator and academic advisor for the Automated Student Assessment Prize (ASAP). He is a frequently cited expert on machine scoring and co-author of Classroom Assessment in Action. He is presently professor and former dean at the University of Houston—Clear Lake's College of Education. Dr. Shermis has also held faculty and administrative positions at the University of Akron, University of Florida, Florida International, IUPUI and the University of Texas. Shermis earned a B.A. in developmental psychology at the University of Kansas and Doctorate and Master's degrees in educational psychology at the University of Michigan. He is a fellow of the American Psychological Association (Divisions 1, 5, & 15) and the American Educational Research Association and is a licensed psychologist in Texas, Florida, California, Ohio, and Indiana. His latest book (Jill Burstein, co-editor), Handbook of Automated Essay Evaluation: Current Applications and New Directions, was published by Routledge in April 2013.